For what it's worth, these types of concerns were considered by the team.

We tried what we could to target the most needy without getting way out to where it would clearly be a non-starter with legis. There were limitations, though.

Also, the size is justified by the need in the bush, but is something that legis' can scale back and take the public heat.

It's a fair statement about lack of legis outreach, and we just didn't have time, but can't tell him that. However, it is also a function of the lack of leadership we can confer with and have confidence they're speaking for a majority of the body.

Just wanted to let you know, Rep Doogan called today as a courtesy to the Governor to let her know that he does not support the energy plan. He doesn't want to surprise her when he makes public comments.

His reasons are: 1) this isn't a policy 2) too broad, should go to those who really need the assistance 3) too much of a hand-out

In addition, he said he thought it may have been helpful to the Administration to get feed back from some law makers prior to its unveiling.

It is best to know now what some of the concerns and criticisms will be before the legislation is introduced.

Hi,
Some pics of the Galena emergency road closure to the landfill and KIYU transmitter/generator access problem.

An emergency declaration will be considered by the Galena City Council Tuesday evening.

The problem was totally unexpected this year, we understood we/DOT had many years to address the possible road failure.

Also a few fun pics of Galena.

Most pics by Kevin Munter.

Thank you,
Walt

Thank you Gov.Palin for your help,Last few years it has been hard and a trying times in the rural communities and to see the young families cut off from electical power in the start of the winter and into the early winter was very hard for me,to see my friends and community members wondering how they go out on the subsistence hunt and gathering because of high prices of fuel and people make choices to pay bills or feed the family,most often the choice is to feed the family.
The price of gas and fuel are at the all time high in Togiak at the last delivery and fishing does not cut it anymore,most of the time we are fishing for expences and a very little income to pay bills and State of Alaska wondering why people with the loans are'nt paying them.

> > Those of our villages who pay over 60 cents a khw and over $6 a gallon for gasoline, heating oil, and diesel, are very happy with the help Governor Palin proposes. It is clear that she knows that no program ever will make all people happy but this is a great IMMEDIATE step to keep us going until a short-term, median, and long term solution can be found to lower all of our energy costs across Alaska.

We do need an Alaska State Energy Policy and Plan and I believe the governor is working on that.
We need to be working together on this. We in the villages are a part of the rest of Alaska as citizens under the Alaska State Constitution. Our Constitution mandates that our resources be developed for the maximum benefit for ALL Alaskans.
I am confident that at some point in the very near future we will have an energy policy that is fair and equitable to all, an economic policy that will add value to our non-renewable and renewable natural resources before we ship them out, and an Alaska attitude and feeling among all of us, that no matter where we live, we will be given equal treatment that we all want for everyone in Alaska.
I applaud Governor Palin for seeing our current energy crisis situation and is doing something about it NOW! I am thankful.

I want to thank you for your recognition of our energy crisis across the state and your very positive response to our very real needs.

Our gasoline in Dillingham is now $5.70 a gallon and heating oil is $5.74 a gallon. Freight costs are already high and food costs are increasing to keep up with the rising cost of freight, heating fuel and electricity.

All of these issues compound our energy crisis and does call for immediate attention to forestall a further downward economic spiral that may become irreversible without very robust state intervention.

Again, thank you for your energy relief proposal.

My best personal regards,

Frank Bailey and I have been watching the rising star of Nicole Colbert, ever since she captured the Miss WEIO title - and have talked about tapping her talent. Frank has wanted to put Nicole in an appropriate spot on a board or commission.

Recently she won the national Miss World Indian title.

Nicole now has many financial obligations she is shouldering on her own to represent our great state.

She needs some help. Privileged or Personal Material Redacted

Also, earlier this year, when we were discussing a response to the Fox Radio Racism Controversy, Tara Jollie had suggested Privileged or Personal Material Redacted - an idea that seemed to resonate with you.

I see some opportunities coming.

Privileged or Personal Material Redacted

Also of note…

At this time, just about every major title holder is Alaska Native. Courtney Carroll the current reigning Miss Alaska, is a former Miss WEIO. I believe Miss Teen Alaska is Native as well. I'll check into this.

Earlier we had talked about the Nenana Bridge celebration honoring Shirley Demientieff. Melissa Stepovich says the bridge dedication and picnic will take place on August 8th, unfortunately past the signing date for SB 158. Mindy Rowland suggested a "quiet signing"… with a follow-up celebration on August 8th.

Privileged or Personal Material Re Nicole is well known for her enthusiastic speeches. She promotes sobriety and abstinence – to prevent unwanted pregnancies.

MESSAGE:

Gov. Palin,

When announcing your fuel subsidy program on the state wide news why did you say giving $100 to Alaskans is better than letting the money pile up in Juneau?

Why not say something like; letting the money pile up in a state savings account, or permanent fund?

Is it because you disrespect or dislike Juneau? Is it because you cannot resist an opportunty to take a shot at the citizens of Juneau?

Is your disregard for the citizens of Juneau intentional or is this just how you think?

Is this part of a political agenda?

I lived in South Central Alaska for 12 years and have experienced this anti Juneau attitude first hand. Playing off "Juneau" as the source of problems in government is unfair, disrespectful and does not help solve problems.

Presenting your $100/month gift to Alasakans as an "us vs. Juneau issue" is not something to be proud of.

My concern is that your anti Juneau attitude is so ingrained you can't help yourself.

As you said during your campaign - You are a valley girl first. I wish you were an Alaskan first.

Sincerely,

Mike Fox

Governor Palin,

Out here in the Midwest, we aren't able to keep up on all the goings-on out your way in the same manner your constituents can, but I've run across snippets of information concerning you from time to time over the last several months, and the more I read...

...the more I like.

With so many layers of bureaucracy in government, and my cynicism growing as fast as my age, my list of everyday heroes is getting smaller and smaller. I realize that there are many more good people doing the people's work (not politicians) than I can mention, but from what I've read about your positions on various issues, you are on my short list of heroes/ heroines, as well as people such as Congressman Mike Pence from Indiana. Of the many things to admire about you, I believe my favorite thing would have to be your spine, for it can not be an easy task to be Governor of our largest State (I hope I have that correctly) in the proximity of some of your more liberally-minded neighboring states.

God Bless you, your family, and your efforts in your work as Alaska's Governor. When I hear rumblings about 'a woman president', I find myself thinking of women such as you, Condoleeza Rice, or Kay Bailey Hutchinson. I believe nowadays, a lot of people spend too much time trying to put someone in office who looks or acts Presidential, instead of someone with substance in ideas and some backbone. I consider you to have both. Once again, I believe this next election will be about electing the lesser of two evils and not the best person for the job. Such is the course American Politics has taken us to.

Once again, God Bless you.

Dear Governor Palin,

I just read an article about your son, Trig, and I felt compelled to email you, which I don't normally do.

My husband, Randy, and I have a beautiful and wonderful, son, Hunter, who is 8 years old. I was 37 and Randy was 46 when Hunter was born. I did not have amneiocentesis until I was 32 weeks pregnant.

At any rate.....Randy and I are both bankers.....have been for a long time....and I have a very demanding and rewarding career. He is our only child, and I think you are so fortunate to have 4 other siblings for Trig to learn from.

At any rate, we are so blessed as Hunter is very vocal.....has great communication skills, a wicked sense of humor, and touches all hearts he meets. He wooed Kyle and Patty Petty, Herschel Walker, and tons of folks in our town of Asheville, NC.

This will be the most rewarding and challenging endeavor you take on in your lives. Randy and I cannot imagine our lives without Hunter.

I wish you all the best.

MESSAGE:

Dear Governor Palin,

I think it ROCKS that you will be attending the women's Gold Nugget Triathlon this Sunday. This event brings many women of different ages and athletic abilities together in a positive, energetic, healthy environment. For many women and girls, this is their first triathlon and is evidence of a co

Subject: Talis Colberg and Disneyworld

Dear Governor Palin, Mr. Nizich and Ms. Perry,

Just so you are aware of the details of my personal schedule please note the following:

1) Monday I will be out of the office attending my daughter Eva's middle school promotion.
2) Then from Wednesday May 21 through Wednesday June 4 I will be celebrating the graduation of Eva and myself with my wife in Walt Disney World.
3) I will be in the office Tuesday May 20.

In Florida will have my Blackberry and personal phone, however, they will probably be switched off during the Splash Mountain and Hall of the President's rides. My text messages may be confused during the Indiana Jones Temple of Doom ride. However, generally I should be able to be reached. I can direct important questions to staff for a prompt response if necessary.

Talis

Subject:	Telephone Call - Mayor Begich - 05.16.08

Governor -

I just spoke by telephone with Mayor Mark Begich. Mayor Begich is asking for a quick phone call with you in regards to Capital Budget. I explained that due to the overwhelming requests that you are not meeting individually on the Capital Budget - it is just not possible. The Mayor stated that he understood and here are his points.

1. He does not want to lobby you.
2. Does not want to go over shopping list with you.

Wants to talk with you on the Wind Farm Project - he feels that you have limited contacts out there on this item. He is very concerned that he knows what your fee

Subject: Heads Up on energy Plan

Just wanted to let you know, Rep Doogan called today as a courtesy to the Governor to let her know that he does not support the energy plan. He doesn't want to surprise her when he makes public comments.

His reasons are: 1) this isn't a policy 2) too broad, should go to those who really need the assistance 3) too much of a hand-out

In addition, he said he thought it may have been helpful to the Administration to get feed back from some law makers prior to its unveiling.

It is best to know now what some of the concerns and criticisms will be before the legislation is introduced.
